OD WORKS!

IMMIGRATION BOOT CAMP FOR HR PROFESSIONALS

Presented by Jennifer G. Roeper

OD Works! is an advanced program for experienced human resources, legal, and business professionals.

The modern workplace presents legal challenges far more complicated than can be fully covered in basic seminars and speeches. Complex laws and regulations, increased litigation threats, overzealous government agencies, and ever-increasing business demands complicate the many decisions that human resources (HR), legal, and business professionals make every day.

To help, Ogletree Deakins has developed OD Works!—an advanced-level employment law workshop series for experienced HR, legal, and business professionals. Each session explores substantive employment law topics using real-world fact patterns and litigated cases as the foundation for advanced discussion and analysis. This series is recommended for HR, legal, and business professionals who have at least five years of experience. HR professionals should have their PHR, SPHR, or GPHR certifications.

Does your company engage in visa and green card sponsorship? Are you seeing too many Requests for Evidence and denials, and looking for better results? Are you new to the immigration process and just want to learn more about the different visa categories? This program is designed to provide the basic building blocks to demystify the immigration process. Our team will provide a basic training on immigration concepts and offer strategies to build a successful immigration program at your company.
