DESCRIPTION

In response to the COVID-19 pandemic, Governor Andrew Cuomo has issued a series of executive orders that impact the nature and extent of business operations in New York State. On March 18, 2020, he signed into law emergency legislation that extends paid leave and additional employment protections and benefits to employees involuntarily quarantined in connection with COVID-19. In this webinar, the speakers will untangle the rapidly developing legal landscape and address a range of issues affecting employers in New York, including:

- paid leave and benefits requirements;
- work closure orders and essential business exemptions;
- state unemployment insurance laws; and
- New York WARN Act issues, including permanent termination requirements as well as furloughs and other alternatives to layoffs.
