Join us for an engaging discussion designed to help employers understand and manage the complex landscape of employee data privacy laws in California and across the nation. The speakers will explore the risks and benefits associated with the business use of artificial intelligence (AI) tools. This webinar will cover: (1) compliance obligations under California law, including the California Consumer Privacy Act, upcoming regulations on automated decision-making technologies, and draft regulations addressing the effects of bias in AI; (2) how to prepare for, defend against, and respond to data security incidents while minimizing risk; and (3) tips to help you avoid common pitfalls. Whether you are an HR professional, corporate counsel, or business leader, this webinar will equip you with the tools you need to effectively manage employee privacy in today's evolving regulatory environment.
