DESCRIPTION

As we head into 2021, employers in the trucking industry are faced with a number of California labor and employment developments. This webinar will cover the main issues employers will want to consider as they prepare to address these significant recent developments, including Assembly Bill 5 and the litigation enjoining its application to motor carriers, the impact of Proposition 22, new case law affecting incentive-based compensation models, meal and rest period requirements, activity involving class actions and Private Attorney Generals Act claims, and other new employment legislation affecting trucking employers in California.
