DESCRIPTION

The California State Legislature has been hard at work in 2021, and a slew of new laws will await employers as the calendar turns to 2022. Join us for an update on newly enacted laws in the Golden State, including laws that expand the California Family Rights Act, create restrictions on severance agreements, impose criminal penalties for some types of labor law violations, and implement new mandates for employers. In addition to reviewing new legislation, the speakers will provide tips for updating your policies and practices in response to the new laws.
