DESCRIPTION

The COVID-19 Emergency Temporary Standards issued by the California Division of Occupational Safety and Health (Cal/OSHA) is complex and requires, among other things, California employers to adopt and implement a written COVID-19 Prevention Program. In this webinar, the speakers will discuss the testing requirements, outbreak calculations and duties, and more. The speakers will also address how California employers can ensure compliance with the new temporary standards and best practices employers may want to adopt during the pandemic.
