DESCRIPTION

In this OSHA Hour webinar, the speakers will discuss employers' most common misconceptions about workplace safety law—those that could cause employers to waste time and resources and relinquish their legal rights. The speakers will also address various workplace safety and health issues, including what a “serious” violation is (the answer may surprise you); whether OSHA is bound by its field operation manuals; the difference between abatement and compliance; whether a judge may freely disagree with OSHA's legal interpretations; and others.
