DESCRIPTION

On June 10, 2021, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) finally published its long-awaited COVID-19 Emergency Temporary Standard (ETS). To the surprise of many and the dismay of some, the ETS applies only to the healthcare industry. It is not a coincidence, therefore, that OSHA also published on the same day a revised COVID-19 guidance for all other industries. So where does this leave employers? In this webinar, the speakers will discuss the key provisions of both the ETS and guidance and provide practical tips to assist employers with their compliance efforts.
