DESCRIPTION

Since mid-May, some restrictions imposed due to the COVID-19 pandemic in Germany have been gradually relaxed and many workplaces have reopened. In addition, some travel restrictions within Europe are being lifted, making business travel possible. These developments can be a challenge for employers that are faced with safeguarding their employees' health and safety. In this webinar, the speakers will provide an overview of the new occupational health and safety standards from the Federal Ministry of Labour and Social Affairs and the European Agency for Safety and Health at Work. The speakers will also address the lifting of German travel restrictions, recent developments on governmental support related to the workforce, and issues related to remote work arrangements—which some employers plan to continue.
