DESCRIPTION

Many employers are implementing screening and/or COVID-19 testing of employees and visitors as part of their plans to reduce workplace risks associated with COVID-19. In addition, a growing number of jurisdictions are now recommending (and some are requiring) that businesses actively screen employees entering their facilities. Employers with critical infrastructure employees also are implementing supervised employee screening to comply with current CDC guidance.

Join the authors of the firm's newly launched Testing and Screening Guide as they discuss how to navigate the many legal and practical aspects of crafting a workplace testing and screening program.
