This session will provide an update on the latest developments relevant for organisations with employees in the United Kingdom, as well as an overview of some differences between UK and U.S. employment laws. Join attorneys from Ogletree Deakins' London office as they discuss the following topics:

- Restrictive covenants: the impact of the UK Supreme Court's ruling that commonly used wording is unreasonable and therefore unenforceable
- Nondisclosure agreements: a proposal to limit the use of these agreements in response to the "gagging" of harassment victims
- Off-payroll working: new laws will increase misclassification risks to employers engaging contractors through a personal service company
- Brexit: the implications for HR teams and EU immigrants working in the UK
