DESCRIPTION

The “New York State on PAUSE” executive order, which requires, among other things, that all non-essential businesses statewide remain closed, is set to expire for certain regions at 11:59 p.m. on May 15, 2020. Over the last two weeks, Governor Andrew Cuomo introduced a strategy to “Un-PAUSE” the state by reopening businesses in phases based on region, industry, and risk of infection. In this webinar, the speakers will address how employers can develop reopening plans that are tailored to specific industries, employers, and regions. Topics will include:

- how to assess the risk of infection in the workplace;
- best practices for designing a safer workplace; and
- evaluating new processes for workplace and employee safety.
