States that require private employers to provide voting leave

States that do not require private employers to provide voting leave

*This map relates only to private employers. Public employees may be subject to different laws.

Updated 1-2020

This map is intended as a visual aid and should not be relied upon or construed as a substitute for legal advice.